Note on Data Conversion:

While I do anticipate that a successful data conversion is a very probable option, at this time I have only reviewed a small sample of your existing data. I have determined that I can "technically" read and convert the data from your DOS system to my database, but I have yet to determine how complete the data conversion will be on a field by field basis. Typically, there are some differences in the way data is stored between systems which may result in conversions that are less than 100% of all fields. Even in that situation, the conversion typically results in 100% of the defendants and 100% of the cases being converted.
